

Dear Visitor!

Our model railway layout represents many hours of spare time work and the individual modules are all in private ownership. In order to avoid damage to the mostly fragile modules or their superstructures, please do not touch any part of the layout nor place your belongings on the modules.

If you are visiting the exhibition with children, we hope that you will enjoy the fascination of our model railway together with them: please accompany young children at all times, do not let them run freely and ensure that they understand that these valuable and delicate scale models must not be touched or picked up like ordinary toys. Thank you for your endorsement.

Please feel free to take photographs and to send them to our club by e-mail at office@schmalspur-modulbaugruppe.at. Please also take the opportunity to visit our homepage, you will find details of our future events, our modules and models, various information on (re)construction of models as well as numerous useful links on the topic of (model) railroading. Various search headings cover the topics of vegetation, figurines, vehicles, houses, sounds, etc. you can see and hear during the exhibition on our modules, which contribute so much to the integrity of the layout.

Members of our group bear themselves all costs for presenting the exhibitions to you. We do this in order to avoid charging our visitors any entrance fee and are very grateful for all donations.

It is really important for us to share the joy of the model railway hobby with others.

If you have any questions, want to share your own model or prototype railway experiences or just want to chat with us, please simply introduce yourself to one of our members: we all wear name badges to make the contact easy for you.

Do you or your children want to feel like a train driver? Ask us and just fill in a simple questionnaire with your children in order to get acquainted with our layout. Please be patient if a teaching driver is not available immediately, as we have only a limited number of train sets suitable for would-be drivers.

And now enjoy your visit to our exhibition, talk about it to others and come back as often as possible!
